

SPEAKER'S BIO

ANDREW FOX

COMMISSIONER
FEDERAL MEDIATION AND CONCILIATION SERVICE

Commissioner Andrew P. Fox comes to the FMCS Glendale California office after a career with the Los Angeles Fire Department where he promoted through the ranks eventually becoming Deputy Fire Chief. Mr. Fox brings extensive experience both as an executive manager and a labor leader. He was President of United Firefighters Local #112 AFL-CIO representing rank and file firefighters and then again served as President of the Chief Officers Association where he represented Command Staff management employees.

Mr. Fox also brings experience in local government. He was a six term Councilmember and Mayor for the City of Thousand Oaks, California where he mediated a variety of public policy issues related to housing, the arts, environment, mobile home rent control, cell towers, and school facilities.

Mr. Fox also has knowledge and practice in utilizing virtual technology platforms to conduct mediations in Collective Bargaining, Grievance issues, EEO and other Workplace Disputes. He also provides labor-management training programs delivered in the traditional classroom and virtual platforms.

Mr. Fox has a BA in Political Science from California Lutheran University, and a MA from Pepperdine University School of Law where he has served as an adjunct professor teaching negotiation. He resides in Thousand Oaks California with his wife Letitia. They have eight children and ten grandchildren.